LADD BIRO 'REACHING OUT'

Ladd Biro comes to music naturally; his father played violin, his mother, piano, and he began piano lessons as a wee lad (d). He sax, and as a teen, perhaps emulating his older brother, he formed a musical group made up of school chums. "We called it Duration," he recalls ruefully. "And it seemed like a cool spray by that name, and . . . played bass in that band, and became proficient enough to later join his older brother's band. They later parted - amicably - but by then, music was his lifeblood, and he's never looked back.

Ladd Biro has long been known as both a bassist and pianist, but more recently gained widespread notice as a vocalist and songwriter. His breakout song "Reach Out!" - has been praised by listeners and radio stations, with divergent
